

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: Mary Bevan
814-269-2490 or bevanm@ctc.com

Concurrent Technologies Corporation Receives Two Awards from Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve

Johnstown, PA, December 3, 2009 – Concurrent Technologies Corporation (CTC) was recently presented with two awards from the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR): the Liberty Bell Award and the Patriot Award. The ESGR is a Department of Defense (DoD) organization which focuses on promoting cooperation and understanding between National Guard and Reserve members and their civilian employers.

“CTC is proud to be recognized as an organization supportive of the National Guard and Reserve,” said Edward J. Sheehan, Jr., CTC’s President & Chief Executive Officer. “We take great pride in knowing that a number of our employees have served or are currently serving our country. As a company, we will continue to uphold our pledge to the ESGR to go above and beyond in our support of our military employees.”

On September 24, 2009, CTC received the Liberty Bell Award during a ceremony at the Army War College in Carlisle, PA. CTC received this award for its outstanding service and continuing, exceptional support of its military employees. The Liberty Bell Award recognizes what supportive employers do: demonstrate support for service in the National Guard and Reserve; publicly acknowledge the contribution of Guard and Reserve employees to our Nation’s defense; support Guard and Reserve employees beyond the law’s requirements; and support employees’ families during mobilizations.

On November 6, 2009, Gregory Simmons, Central Program Support Specialist of the ESGR, presented the Patriot Award to CTC employees Cristina Tomlinson and Gino Spinos. The Patriot Award, based on an employee nomination, recognizes employers who support a strong National Guard and Reserve force. CTC’s Capt. Seth Foulkes, USAF, is currently serving in Iraq and nominated CTC employees Cristina Tomlinson and Gino Spinos for the award. Capt. Foulkes wrote: “CTC’s personnel policies and leadership, along with support from both Cristina Tomlinson and Gino Spinos, were the basis for my nomination. From my initial notification of mobilization in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom to my current situation, CTC has displayed consistent reliability by being there for me.”

CTC recognizes the heroic efforts of those employees who are serving America—many in harm’s way. The company has more than 30 employees on active or Reserve military duty and takes extra steps to support those employees and their families whenever possible. For example, in December 2008, CTC offered the use of its videoconferencing services to families of CTC employees stationed overseas. The program will be offered again in 2009 so that military members and their families can see and talk to each other during the holiday season.

Concurrent Technologies Corporation (CTC) is an independent, nonprofit, applied scientific research and development professional services organization providing innovative management and technology-based solutions to government and industry. As a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization, CTC’s primary purpose and programs are to undertake applied scientific research and development activities that serve the public interest. For more information, visit www.ctc.com.

CTC receives the ESGR Patriot Award.
Left to right: CTC’s Gino Spinos, CTC’s Cristina Tomlinson, ESGR Committee Member William Rozier, CTC President & CEO Edward J. Sheehan, Jr., and ESGR Central Program Support Specialist Greg Simmons.