Concurrent Technologies Corporation Awarded $10.9 Million in Task Orders from United States Army Space and Missile Defense Command/Army Forces Strategic Command to Provide Software Engineering, Development, and Programming Support

Johnstown, PA, May 29, 2015 – Concurrent Technologies Corporation (CTC) announced today that it received two new task orders totaling $2.2 million from the U.S. Army Space and Missile Defense Command/Army Forces Strategic Command (USASMDC/ARSTRAT). With these task orders, CTC has received $10.9 million in awards this year from USASMDC/ARSTRAT and over $45 million since the initial contract award in 2008.

CTC provides support to USASMDC/ARSTRAT in the areas of software engineering, development, and programming activities. The support touches organizations within USASMDC/ARSTRAT from the Technical Center to the Future Warfare Center.

“CTC is dedicated to providing the right people and the best possible solutions to support USASMDC/ARSTRAT,” said Edward J. Sheehan, Jr., CTC President & Chief Executive Officer. “We are pleased to continue our work with USASMDC/ARSTRAT and proud to support our nation’s Warfighters.”

Since its inception in 1957, the USASMDC/ARSTRAT has had a lengthy history of achievement in space and missile defense. Their enduring priorities include providing relevant, timely capabilities to the Warfighter; accelerating the development and fielding of space and missile defense capabilities; and operating on a foundation of values and teamwork.

“We have been partnering with USASMDC/ARSTRAT for over seven years,” explains Dr. Kamal Gella, CTC Program Manager. “The recent task orders exhibit our client’s trust in CTC and provide us with the opportunity to further advance their mission.”
